A NOTE FROM THE MAINTENANCE DEPARTMENT

The holiday season is about to start; I would like to take a minute to remind you of a couple of safety issues; first the use of extension cords is forbidden in any of our apartments. The lighting of candles is also not permitted, as well as the burning of incense; anything that has an open flame or produces an ash or ember is not allowed.

And we must also think about that dreaded white stuff, snow. We will again try our best to keep all our pathways and exits clear, our crews work very hard trying to remove the snow as quickly and efficiently as possible. We are also very conscious of our four legged friends as will use pet safe ice melt. But even still please do not let your dog lick their paws or eat the ice melt.

And as of today (19 November) only 32 days until the days start getting longer, positive thoughts will make the winter pass more quickly.

Hope that everybody has a safe and joyful holiday season.

Greg Monka
Maintenance Director
